

Biography:

f' traces his research path between exploration and experience [#para_performance] to create immersive, interactive installations that reflect a complex lived reality [#dense_place]. Each work consists of a chain of discrete, autonomous elements that connect through emergent and temporary, non-predetermined bonds. These interactions possess a discursiveness that unfolds across various media, often in an uncoordinated manner [#hyperextension].

f' works span traditional methodologies and cutting-edge digital technologies, seamlessly blending theoretical insights with practical experimentation. These creations frequently emerge through participatory processes, adopting a reciprocal methodology that leverages collective intelligence to craft immersive, haptic experiences [#heterodirected].

The nuanced interaction between humanity and nature [#biophilia] forms the foundation of f' inquiry, through which f' explores pressing political and social processes, translating them into poetic and visionary works born from the synthesis of collective data and personal practice [#political_act].

f' strives to develop a critical topography of perception by analyzing the 'digital episteme' and its impact on social imagination. f' aim is to investigate how technological mediations can cognitively and perceptually shape our understanding of reality.

A significant part of f' recent work revolves around the concept of 'civil patronage', evolving as an artistic operation in relation to social practice mechanisms. This approach to art begins with action in the territory, activated through engagement with the encountered reality, considering its meaningful elements, history, memory, contradictions, and conflicts.

f' works and projects have been presented at Italian and international institutions, including Museo Madre, Napoli; Kulturni Centar, Bihac, Bosnia and Herzegovina; Mediamatic, Amsterdam ; Fondazione Sandretto Re Rebaudengo, Torino; Museo del Novecento, Milano; Centro per l'Arte Contemporanea Luigi Pecci, Prato; Fondazione Arnaldo Pomodoro, Milano; 'A cielo aperto', Latronico; Skaftfell project space, Center for Visual Art, East Iceland; 3rd Land Art Biennial LAM 360°, Mongolia; Auditorium Kunstnerne Hus - KHIO, Oslo; Sinop Biennale, Sinop (Turchia). since 1999 f' has created, founded and directed several projects. the most recent are Carrozzeria Margot , a2410
